EASTERN NEWS.

[BY TELEGRAPH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

Boss Tweed again Out.

NEW YORK, June 22.—Boss Tweed appeared in the court house to-day in custody of the deputy sheriff. He was smuggled off Blackwell Island at last night, and drove around the city in a carriage. This morning he went to his office in Duane street and spent some time in consultation with counsel, after which he proceeded to Disley's office with his son and secretary. In the supreme court, his counsel presented to Judge Davis the order of the court of appeals for his discharge from the penitentiary which was signed by the judge. Boss Tweed soon after appeared in the court of Oyer and Terminer before Judge Brady. The room was soon packed with people in immense numbers, and others clamoring for admittance. The district attorney moved that defendant be arraigned to plead to an indictment found in November, 1873. David Dudley Field, of counsel for Tweed, stated he was not ready to plead or make a motion to quash, no notice of this indictment having been received only a few days since. Peckham, on behalf of the people, said it was evident defendant intended to pursue tactics and get a stay of proceedings as long as possible. This was disclaimed by Field.

A legal war of words followed, which lasted near an hour, Phelps and Peckham, on behalf of the people, claiming there was no reason why the case should be made an exceptional one or special favor be shown defendant. Field demanded to know what special favors have been shown or would be. "My client," said he, "has for seven months been illegally confined in the penitentiary, and when, after committing this outrage—an outrage for which every one concerned in it shall be held strictly accountable—and after he is released by a higher court than themselves, it is wrong and unjust to ask us to plead to an indictment of which we know nothing." Counsel said it could not be considered a special favor to issue warrants in a civil suit of $6,000,000 and fix the bail at the enormous figure of $3,000,000, and that such bail was unheard of. "Yes," said Peckham, "and the stealing of $6,000,000 was an unheard of thing, until defendant committed the theft."

The matter here rested, and Judge Brady stated he believed the defendant ought to have time to examine the indictments, but would not give a formal decision until later in the day. The court then fixed bail on the new indictment, charging the Boss with fraudulently obtaining the signature of Mayor Hall to a warrant paid to Rev. J. Garvey. The court fixed bail at $30,000 on the indictment. On the indictment found by the grand jury of the May, 1875, term of the court of Oyer and Terminer, which charges him with conspiracy in having, in conjunction with Peter B. Sweeney and Robert A. Woodward, attempted to defraud the city, the court fixed bail at $1,000. The proceedings were then adjourned, and Tweed was surrendered by his counsel and left the court room. Bail on the indictments is to be furnished this afternoon. He was taken into custody and conveyed to jail, where he remains until the $3,000,000 bail is furnished.

Maine Democratic State Convention.

AUGUSTA, Me., June 22.—The Democratic Convention met to-day. Present, 631 delegates. Gen. Sam. J. Anderson was chosen permanent chairman, and committees were appointed.

AUGUSTA June 22.—In the afternoon session of the Democratic State convention resolutions were read and adopted embodying the following declarations: The constitution is the people's only safeguard; the rights of the people and States must be sacredly guarded from the touch of military or congressional usurpation; civil supremacy in times of peace; equality of rights of all men under the law; sound currency, coin or its equivalent; tariff for revenue only; government economically administered; honest preservation of public faith to public creditors; return to economy in the administration of the Government in national, State and municipal affairs; unnecessary offices abolished and reduction of salaries; one term for the President, with salary of $25,000. The resolutions arraign the Republican party for abandonment of principles, profligacy and corruption, and condemn the administration in strong terms for the responsibility of the Louisiana usurpation and the attempt to suspend habeas corpus by the last Congress, and pronouncing it no longer safe to trust the reins of government in such hands. The administration is pronounced responsible for the present depressed condition of the country's commerce for the crippling of the ship-building trade and driving of the American mercantile marine from the ocean, and the ports of Maine are suffering under the burden. They appeal to all men, without regard to party or past differences, to unite with them to secure a triumph. The effort made to incorporate the financial resolution of the Ohio Democratic convention failed. General Thos. N. Roberts, of Bangor, was nominated for Governor, and the convention adjourned.

Counterfeiter Convicted.

NEW YORK, June 22.—Wm. J. Brown, the notorious counterfeiter from Cincinnati, who escaped some time ago from Ludlow street jail, was placed on trial yesterday, in the criminal branch of the U. S. circuit court, on a charge of attempting to sell two-dollar and ten dollar national currency notes. These notes had, after their capture from Brown, been placed in a safe in the office of the Secret Service division, from which it was alleged they were stolen by Gen. Manck. The notes were not produced on the trial, and to prove their loss the testimony of Col. Elmer Washburn, Misses Semmi Ralph and Rebecca Hoofe, of the treasury department at Washington, and detectives Kennock and Porter, was given. Brown withdrew his plea of not guilty and pleaded guilty, and was remanded for sentence.

Railroad Foreclosure Suit.

William H. Welles, holder of $7,000 worth of bonds of the Buffalo, New York and Erie Railroad Company, payment of which the Erie company has guaranteed, and which are secured by second mortgage of the Buffalo branch, has commenced a suit to foreclose the mortgage. He includes as defendants in the suit the Buffalo, New York and Erie Railroad, Hugh J. Jewett, receiver of the Erie Company, Charles F. Hunter and William Butler Duncan, as Trustees of the Buffalo and Erie Mortgage and Farmers' Land and Trust Company.

The Tribune Puts In.

NEW YORK, June 22.—The Tribune, referring to Beach's insinuation that the Beecher jury had been tampered with in the interest of defendant, and the jury's appeal to the court for protection, says the extraordinary practice of brow-beating the jury does not come within the category of loose talking. Apparently this policy has been fully resolved on, and has a definite purpose. It has been current talk some time that Beach's hope in the case is to get up personal feeling among the jury, striving thus to prevent a unanimous vote for acquittal. It is difficult on any other hypothesis to understand the purpose of a judicious advocate in quarreling so openly and persistently with the jury he is talking a week or more to convince.

Fires.

CINCINNATI, June 22.—W. E. Tabb & Co.'s woolen and carding mills, of Dover, Mason county, Kentucky, burned to-day; loss, $50,000; insurance unknown. Some twenty or thirty persons are thrown out of employment by the catastrophe.

Dissensions in Tammany.

NEW YORK, June 22.—John Morrissey was before the Tammany committee on discipline last night to answer charges of disloyalty. He said he was very independent; said he was in harmony with Tammany but opposed to its management; that the committee might as well make out his dismissal, as he should not resign until he saw it. The Herald says the dissatisfaction which has of late been manifesting itself against Tammany Hall is gradually assuming shape. Last night there assembled in Delmonico's part of a large number of influential Democrats, whose object was to form an organization which will supersede Tammany. The latter organization they claim has outlived its influence, and the time is now ripe for party reorganization on a basis which will give all people a chance to form a general committee which will be constituted of representatives of various elements of the party. Another meeting will be held on Monday next, at which representatives from the wards will be present, and it is expected important work will be done.

Official and Unofficial Confirmation of Gold in the Black Hills.

OMAHA, June 22.—The following is received from Col. Dodge, commanding the escort of Prof. Jenny's Black Hills party:

HARNEY'S PEAK, June 17.—Gold is found in paying quantities on French creek. Custer's report is confirmed in every particular.

Private advices received here say the command found 100 miners at work in Custer's gulch, taking out gold at the rate of $5 to $25 to the pan. The evidence is strong that there are many more miners in that country. The gold found is coarse and scaly, but easily pounded. Quartz mines are abundant, but no one has prospected them. No Indians were seen by the party.

Cheering Crop Prospects.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., June 22.—Reports from all portions of the State say crops are looking well. The prospect for the wheat, corn and cotton crops is better than has ever been known in the history of the State.

Still After the "Crooked."

ST. LOUIS, June 22.—Telegraphic instructions are received here to-day from Internal Revenue Commissioner Pratt to seize the rectifying establishment of Bovis, Frazer & Co., for non-payment of $41,059 taxes, found to be due by them for whisky produced on which no tax was paid.

Gold Discoveries in Dakota.

CHICAGO, June 22.—The Inter-Ocean's special from Custer's Gulch, Dakota, via. Fort Laramie, says gold in large quantities and good quality has been discovered in Custer's Gulch on French creek and along the stream for a distance of upwards of seven miles toward the source. Col. Dodge, with three cavalry companies, left Camp Jenny for the purpose of locating a permanent camp in some available place in the vicinity of Harney's Peak. The command marched due north along Beaver creek, then northeast; when at the end of the second day's march Custer's trail was struck in the midst of snow and rain. That officer's line of march was pursued in a southeasterly direction along Castle creek where the first indications of gold were found. This event induced Prof. Jenny to remain in Castle creek valley three days, in order to prospect, a cavalry company being left with them. With the remainder of the command Colonel Dodge proceeded in a southeasterly direction, till Custer's park was reached, and last Monday the camp was reached, on Custer's gulch and in close contingency to the stockade built by the miners, whom Capt. Mix brought out of the Hills this spring. On Gen. Custer's cavalry camp ground prospects were speedily made and good color was panned out of gold that was of fine quality. The gold fever spread so rapidly that there was hardly one in the command who had not seen and panned out gold color from these placer or gulch mines about Camp Harney for a distance of seven miles. There are scattered along French creek four different mining parties, numbering 25 men, that have taken up claims, from all of which good color has been obtained. There are also several quartz lodes which promise rich returns, but the greatest stress should be placed on gulch gold diggings.

THE TILTON-BEECHER CASE.

Everybody Rises to Explain.

NEW YORK, June 22.—A dense crowd filled the Brooklyn court room this morning. Judge Neilson stated some of the jury were in his room this morning, and from conversations with them with regard to the occurrence of last evening, he believed they were laboring under a misapprehension.

Fullerton and Evarts made a few remarks on the same subject, and said all the issues Beecher had to meet were those presented by the witnesses on the stand, and not those advanced against him in the newspapers, containing outside issues.

Neilson said he had observed in some of the evening papers a paragraph to the effect that his charge had been prepared two months ago, and that he had some time since received requests to charge, from some of the counsel, but in justice to himself and counsel he felt compelled to state his charge was not yet finished, but was now in process of preparation, and that he had not received a request to charge. He was of opinion that if he was allowed to deliver his charge first he could do it in such a manner as that counsel would have but few requests to make, and these they could advance after the charge had been given.

Fullerton and Evarts acquiesced in this matter.

Beach Proceeds.

Beach continued summing up to the jury, and read a letter from Beecher to Mrs. Tilton in which he mentions "true inwardness." The "nest hiding" letter was also read by counsel who took this opportunity of disclaiming that they took the meaning of the word to be adultery. That was not so, as it meant concealment. In Beecher's novel, "Norwood," he likens a delicate woman concealing her love, to a bird covering it up with vines and leaves. In the letter of June 23d Beecher said he was spending his last Sunday and preaching his last sermon, and, in Tilton's testimony it appeared Beecher asked him to give him notice if he was going to publish documents, that he might either take his life by suicide or take a voyage to some foreign land; and the jury remembered the evidence given by Mrs. Moulton. Counsel would trouble them with a few remarks upon the testimony of Richards, in which he stated he saw Beecher in the front room and Mrs. Tilton moving hastily away with flushed cheeks. The jury might not give plaintiff's counsel any credit for thus bringing a brother to testify against his sister, and that the horror of the situation didn't strike them. Counsel had not pressed very closely. We are told Mrs. Tilton loved Beecher, and that he had a feeling for her. Remember this condition of things in that light: Beecher on a chair and the door opened suddenly, and this woman springing away from him with burning cheeks. Was not this a situation which would cause suspicion to enter the heart of the brother? We are told that Beecher visited Mrs. Tilton to pray with and advise her, but this was not the attitude of prayer they were in when the door was opened. It was suggested that in the impulse of the moment and in her embarrassment she did not advance to her brother to greet him, but went to the window, thus showing that she was cognizant of the nature of her impropriety. Beach declared that Beecher, if innocent, could not have rested under the assertion of Bowen, made to Howard in '70, that he knew one thing which could drive Beecher out of Brooklyn, and which Beecher did not dare deny. Bowen said this to Howard after stating the settlement of his difficulties with Beecher did not include the one thing. This charge was known to Beecher, yet he had continued all these years to break the Scripture's bread for the communicant, and pour out for him the blood of the Redeemer. Recess.

Beach continued his address. He said the story of Bessie Turner's removal from her bed room was absurd. He didn't care to make a charge of willful untruth against this witness, but that her threadbare nature and imagination had led her into great exaggeration, though there could be no doubt of one important fact. It appeared from her testimony that on Dec. 14, 1870, Tilton charged his wife with adultery, although the defense claimed this charge resulted from a conspiracy which was not formed until Dec. 26. Moreover, Mrs. Bradshaw testified, although Bessie Turner denied it, that the fact was communicated to her by Bessie Turner, at that date. The issue can't be avoided. The plaintiff's witnesses must be convicted of perjury or else Beecher has quieted his conscience by a form of denial of his own selection. Counsel stated that there were cases when men had lied to save the honor of women with whom they had intercourse, and that in such instances it was thought to be no sin. Counsel quoted from a sermon of Beecher's in which he said the first thing after committing crime was to purify yourself from it and then take counsel from some friend. This was the teachings of Beecher, and the question was whether he had acted on his own theory and convinced his own mind and conscience that this was a case where he should commit that which, under other circumstances would be a grievous sin. Beach made quotations from Beecher's sermons in order to show his teachings were in a measure a departure from the orthodox faith.

Political Exiles come to America.

FUNERAL OF JOSEPH L. MEEK.

HILLSBORO, June 22, 1875.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

All that was mortal of Joseph L. Meek was buried yesterday on his farm, four miles north of here, beneath a lone tree standing near the northwest corner of his old home. Notwithstanding the people of our county have been in the habit of looking on Colonel Meek as a man full of levity, too good natured to amount to much outside of being a good fellow in general, yet a glance at his past history and the prominent part he has filled in saving the State to the government, the various stations he has filled in our Territory and State, and the fidelity to every trust reposed in him—which are proven by the privations and hardships which he endured in crossing the continent in early times—and in the fulfillment of all his official duties in his various positions as an officer; and above all the faculty of passing through the most trying scenes and treating the whole as one huge joke, showed him to be a man of good mind, well balanced, and possessor of natural gifts and traits of character that the more favored and better educated might envy. Colonel Meek has always been true to his country. Excessively liberal, he was often a victim of imposition, but would speak of such matters as a joke played on him. He exhibited no animosity to his enemies, but would pass their petty spite by in silence, or fight it out and consider the matter then as permanently settled.

As near as could be estimated there were present at the funeral about 300 or 400 people. Everywhere we hear expressions of regret at the old man's being called from our midst. And we say, peace to his ashes! Yes, peace to the ashes of all the pioneers now gone, whose indomitable courage, through hardships and privations unspeakable, have paid the price of our enjoyment of this beautiful land. May the memory of these brave men ever be cherished in gratitude, as we sit beneath the vine and figtree which they have planted, and watch the passing years and noting the never-failing seasons of seedtime and harvest.

R. C.

On Monday the 14th inst., a sad accident occurred in Government gulch, about eight miles from Boise City. A man named William Welch, and his son, W. G. Welch, were getting out cord wood. At the time of the accident the father was below the hill splitting the logs which were sawed and rolled down by the son. Just before the fatal log was started down the hill-side the son cried out to his father to get out of the way, who answered, "All right; let it come." But it would seem that the old man was paralyzed with fear, as, from some reason, he did not get far enough out of the way, and the log struck him in the head, then rolled over him, crushing the left thigh, causing instant death.

An hour in the morning is worth two in the afternoon.

On Sunday before last the campmeetings—one on the Touchet, and one on Russel creek, and a basket meeting on Cottonwood, had the effect to bring down most plenteous showers of rain in the Walla Walla country. One gentleman who was camping on the ground on Russell creek, says that the water raised so rapidly in the creek that it came over the campground and came near washing the beds away from under the sleepers. It had the effect to put an end to the meeting and send the people home for dry clothes.

In Jordan valley, Idaho, the crickets are very destructive down there, they having already destroyed a large portion of the growing crops in that locality. When full grown these crickets are as large as mice, and never seem to be satisfied without they are munching something. They display marked intelligence in selecting the very best vegetation they meet with. Some of the grain in Jordan valley was nipped by the late frosts. This they will not touch at all. They leave it and go after that which was uninjured by the frost.

The Walla Walla Spirit says: "Some weeks ago an individual bearing the name of Irving, claiming to be the owner of a large amount of wood in the mountains, managed to gain the confidence of a number of our citizens to such an extent as to enable him to purchase a team and outfit for the purpose of bringing his wood to market; also of contracting a number of other small debts, in all amounting to about $2,000. But, instead of hauling in his wood, he was suddenly seized with a great desire to emigrate, which he accordingly did without settling the aforesaid indebtedness. As soon as his final departure became known, the parties interested started men in pursuit, but he managed to elude all his pursuers save one—Mr. Frank Bell—who caught him somewhere in the Cascade mountains and persuaded him to disgorge some coin and to deliver up the team.

MINING ITEMS.

The discoverers of the Beaver creek cinnabar, in Jackson county, have consolidated their claims under the name of "The Emeline Quicksilver Mining Company.

It is a common street rumor in Jacksonville that a company has made a bargain with McNair and other parties of the famous Galice creek mines to erect a 20-stamp mill in that section for the consideration of a half interest in their claims.

A mining expert from Nevada, who has seen the ore of the quicksilver mines of Lake and Napa counties, California, and other sections, upon looking at the specimens from the Beaver creek district, says the cinnabar ore of those regions is none such as that from the latter place, which he considers very fine.

The Times says a representative of the English company which purchased J. H. Reed & Co.'s placer diggings on Galice creek, arrived in Jacksonville this week. He left for that section in company with Judge Reed and a mining expert from Nevada, which latter gentleman will act as superintendent of the mines.

A Cheyenne reporter has interviewed a man who saw a man at Spotted Tail who had heard a man say that a friend of his had seen another man who had just arrived from the Black Hills with a nugget of gold. This account seems, at first blush, a little circumstantial, but in the main we believe it to be true.

The quartz mill which is to be erected on the Gold Black ledge, near Kerbyville, in Josephine county, had not arrived at its destination yet, but is on its way from Crescent City; and it is expected to have it up and in running order in about three weeks. This company, which will hereafter be known as the "Oregon Quartz Mill and Mining Company," have located and purchased eighteen ten different quartz ledges and silver placer mines, together with a large number of ditches, flumes, etc., with a view to actively engage in developing the mineral resources of that section.

A letter from Galice creek to the Sentinel says: "Messrs. Crow & Sanders have completed their mill and are now sawing. The mill has cost some $4,000, and is one of the best frames in Southern Oregon. It is located at the mouth of Taylor creek, some four miles from Galice City. At the mouth of this creek there is a bar of some forty acres, which has evidently been the bed of Rogue river, and which prospects well as placer mines. It is owned by Mr. Knight, Esq., who is forming a joint stock company and will soon commence work, and I have no doubt but here is one of the richest deposits in Southern Oregon."

The owners are in ecstasies and everybody is excited over rich strikes that have just been made in the Golden Chariot mine, in Idaho. Above the fifth level and some 250 feet south of the shaft in the Chariot proper, they have broken into a ledge from two and a-half to four feet wide of fabulously rich ore. It is estimated that a single blast threw out at least $1,000 worth of rock. It is estimated that several hundred pounds of the ore brought down to the office will mill at least $7,000 per ton, and there is plenty more like it in the mine. They have fully 270 feet of unbroken ground that, in all probability is fully as good as that which they have just struck.

OREGON.

Wm. Bybee recently had his riding animal bitten by a rattlesnake on Antelope.

Ten converts were received into the M. E. Church South, at Tangent campmeeting Monday.

The Grangers had a feast at their hall in Albany last Saturday. A large number of Grangers were in attendance, speeches were made and a good time was had.

R. G. Thompson, Esq., living in Happy Canyon, Umatilla county, one day last week sold 1,200 sheep—most of them being ewes—to G. Silver, Esq., $2 50 per head.

The school superintendent of Marion county has just completed an apportionment of the State school fund among the different districts throughout the county. The amount distributed is 65 cents per scholar.

The Tribune says: "A regular old-fashioned thunder storm passed over Umatilla county on the 15th. It seemed to come from the Blue mountains and went north. The lightning was very vivid, and some strokes were close by, judging from the heavy peals of thunder which followed the flash instantaneously."

A very severe storm of rain and hail visited LaGrande on Sunday before last. In Baker City rain and hail fell to the depth of four inches. At the Cove the hail did considerable damage to the fruit trees, and nearly destroyed the fruit crop. At LaGrande only a few scattering hail stones fell, but a deluge of rain poured down.

Daniel Doty, acquitted last week of the murder of one of the Johnson boys, in Jackson county, was again arrested on two warrants sworn out against him; one an assault to commit murder on Brooks Johnson and the other with an assault with a dangerous weapon on Mrs. Johnson. Justice Stinson held him to appear before the grand jury in the sum of $2,500 for the first, and $1,500 for the latter offense. He was indicted on both charges and gave bonds for his appearance for trial.

Henry Bowman, Esq., living on Birch creek, Umatilla county, came near losing a large number of sheep, a few days ago, by having them eat corn meal containing strychnine, which some kind friend had thrown over into the corral. Only one or two, however, got a taste of the meal ere it was discovered by the herder; and suspecting foul play, he gathered it up and placed it where it can do no more harm. In a day or two after this attempt to poison Mr. Bowman's sheep, his cabin, up in the mountains on his sheep-ranch, was consumed by fire, as well as a large quantity of provisions. Mr. Bowman has no doubt that the cabin was set on fire by the same kind friend who tried to poison his sheep with strychnine; and he is well satisfied that he knows the perpetrator of these flagrant outrages.

The Pendleton Tribune says: "The rains which fell here last week were not only productive of much good, but of harm in some instances. Some of our sheep raisers lost some of their sheep by the cold rain and wind chilling them to death. We understand Mr. Frazer lost 160, and among them a fine merino buck; Sheriff Pruett lost 9; Barnhart Bros. about 100; Mr. Cunningham 400, and Mr. Welch 20; James Whittemore has lost 15; Mr. McCloud 275; Hugh Fields has lost several; Mr. Sturgis 40; Mr. La Grove 80, and Mr. Kirby 90 out of a band of 300. Some of the sheep became bewildered, and ran headlong over a precipice and were killed in that manner; but most of them having been recently sheared, were chilled completely through, and dropped down in their tracks, gave a few spasmodic kicks and expired."

A pretty bold robbery occurred at Albany on Friday night of last week. The Albanian says: "Some person or persons entered the clerk's office, and by the aid of false keys or other appliances known to the genus burglar, effected an entrance to the large iron safe and took therefrom about $3,000 in coin and county orders, placed there for safe keeping by Sheriff Rice. Sunday morning John Burkhart, deputy county clerk, on opening the door of the sheriff's office, found lying on the floor a note addressed to Sheriff Rice, and which, on being examined, was found to contain the unlooked-for information that the tin box which he had deposited in the clerk's office was safely stowed away in the bushes, about 200 yards below this city, and containing minute directions for finding it. The sheriff immediately organized a posse and instituted a search for the missing box, which was found in the exact locality described by the burglars, and contained, besides the papers, etc., about $300 in coin, which the burglars had evidently left as a slight consolation for our worthy sheriff." No clue to the thief, who left word for the sheriff to credit him with $1,000, has yet been found.

On Wednesday of last week a terrible rainstorm passed over portions of Umatilla county all of it, perhaps. Mr. R. G. Thompson, who was caught out in it when near his home, in Happy Canyon, informs the Tribune that the rain fell so fast he came near strangling to death; and he thinks he would actually have strangled to death had he not got under his wagon. Mr. I. M. Veatch, living near the mouth of a gulch, six or seven miles below town, had his dwelling house and everything it contained swept away. Mrs. Veatch happened to be at a neighbor's. Incredible as it may seem, the water in the gulch rose fifteen feet in a few seconds, and, seeing it coming, Mr. Veatch ran out of his house—carrying his youngest child in his arms—to the hillside, and he thus saved himself and three children, as it were, by the skin of their teeth, for scarcely had he reached a place of comparative safety when the foaming, angry torrent came rushing down with resistless force and swept away his house and everything it contained. A small cultivated field near the house is covered three feet deep with mud and rocks of all sizes—some of them will weigh a ton. Mr. Thompson says he thought the day of doom had come. Water came down in great torrents; sharp lightning flashed almost without intermission, and the thunder was actually deafening and made the ground tremble. It is probable that this thunderstorm damaged others in the county.

CONDITION OF THE NATIONAL GRANGE.—Washington, Friday, June 11, 1875.—The headquarters of the national grange of the Patrons of Husbandry, which ever since the organization of the order, in 1868, has been in Washington, will probably be removed to Louisville, Ky., in a short time. Kentucky stands No. 5 as regards the number of granges, having 1,559. Indiana heads the list with 2,027 Granges. Missouri has 2,026; Iowa, 2,004; Illinois, 1,584, and Kentucky, 1,559. The total number of Granges in the United States is 23,500, with an estimated aggregate membership of 1,500,000. The total receipts from 1868 to 1871, inclusive, were less than $5,000, while the receipts last year were $216,381. The order at present has $69,000 invested in Government bonds, and $19,000 in cash on deposit at the financial agency in New York.

SOME SUGGESTIONS TO GRANGERS.

PORTLAND, June 21, 1875.

To Patrons of Husbandry: The time is near at hand when such legislation is expected to be had as will materially affect our organization for good or evil, and it is very important that we begin to consider what is necessary to be done that we may be prepared to act intelligently when the time comes.

While much of our previous work requires revision, for good and welfare, in a social point of view, an entire new code of laws is necessary for the government of our business relations. At the last meeting of the State Grange, a committee was appointed on transportation and co-operation, who made a detailed report which was adopted, and if it had been carried out would have met the wants of the case. If my memory serves me, I think it was not published with the proceedings. It required our jurisdiction to be divided into convenient council districts, in which monthly councils should be held, composed of delegates from the several subordinate granges within their limits, and that said councils should elect from their own body one delegate for every five hundred members there represented, who, together, should form a State Council to govern all the business affairs of our order, subject to appeal to executive committee. That report however crude, embodied the wisdom of our order and contemplated a fair representative business organization—the business of the order to be controlled by the order, outside of our social organization and yet in harmony with it. That report also contained instructions to the executive committee to proceed to incorporate the State Grange as soon after adjournment as possible, and then to instruct the deputies to carry out its provisions. Had those instructions been obeyed, no doubt the system contemplated would have been completed in time to have met the wants of the following year, instead of which, for some cause, (that does not appear) our executive committee assumed to incorporate with a large capital in their own name, and to establish a business in the name of our order and dictate the terms on which we were to deal with them. If they had any authority for such action, I have been unable to find it, and I protest against it, as I did from the beginning, and insist that it ought not and cannot be tolerated. Our order is purely social in its nature and objects, while business organizations are the natural consequences flowing from it; and while going hand and hand together, they cannot be incorporated under the same head. Each must take care of its own interests independent of the other, or our ruin is assured. Confidence in our cause and in each other is our bond of union, and just in proportion as that confidence is complete will be our strength. We look to our executive officers for instruction and guidance in the work of the order, and to decide all differences that may arise between us, and they cannot be interested in our business complications and retain our respect. We must see in our executive an impartial judge to whom we may appeal with confidence, or we shall present the spectacle of a body without a head and shall fall to pieces of our own weight; while with confidence in our organization and in each other, we shall feel encouraged to embark in every needed enterprise, satisfied that so long as we obey the rules and regulations prescribed, we are entitled to countenance and support. In our body as well as others, we must expect to find men ambitious of power and self-interest, and it behooves us to guard carefully every avenue against the entrance of such a spirit, and promptly put down every assumption not warranted and clearly defined in our constitution and laws. As all are equally under the law, so all are equally interested in maintaining it, and entitled to a fair representation under it, and if the business interest growing out of our association is directed and controlled by a board elected for that purpose, acting under instructions directly from the several granges, and directly responsible to them, a general and cheerful obedience will be rendered, and all will go smoothly. Should misunderstandings arise,—as they surely will,—an appeal to the executive committee will end the strife.

My object in presenting these few thoughts is to arouse you to a sense of your position, the duties devolving upon you and provoke discussion. I hope others will take the field who are more competent to deal with the subject, and through the press, give in their views. Let every question of importance be fully canvassed and understood before the meeting of the State Grange, when all can act intelligently and effectively. I may have something further to say, and particularly in regard to the new degrees recently instituted by the National Grange, which, in my opinion, tends to the building up of an aristocracy in our midst. Fraternally, A GRANGER.

THE OBJECT OF GEN. MEIGS'S EUROPEAN VISIT.—The following is the letter of Secretary Belknap to Quartermaster General Meigs in regard to the assignment of the latter to special service abroad: The president, recognizing your varied and distinguished services as an officer of engineers and as quartermaster general during the most eventful period of the military history of the country, and desiring that your experience may be still further extended, and the result of your observations be embodied in a special report, directs that you be detached upon special service, with full pay and allowances, for the purpose of inspecting and reporting upon the organization of foreign armies. It is expected that you will make the staff department the special subject of your investigation, particularly the quartermaster's department, as it has been many years since that department has been represented by a commission abroad, while the other corps have enjoyed this advantage. You will embrace in your final report not only the results of your observations on foreign armies, but that which may be of most value in the reports of your own subordinates during the recent rebellion, and make such suggestions and recommendations as in your judgment will add to the efficiency of our own organization. You will be allowed 18 months for this purpose from June 1, or such portion of that time as may be deemed necessary for you properly to perform this duty.

The Jacksonville Times of the 19th instant, contains this paragraph, which we give our readers for what it is worth:

In conversation with a member of the firm of Geo. Tay & Co., San Francisco, well posted on railroad matters, we learn that a change is liable to take place in the management of the Oregon branch of the O. & C. R. R., at any time. The German bondholders, our informant says, will take charge of and run affairs themselves ere long, ousting Ben Holladay. He says that these foreign capitalists have some millions invested in this enterprise and are out considerable, and the only way that they can get even is to build the railroad through. It will take some $13,000,000 or $14,000,000 more to run it to the line; but this gentleman says they will undoubtedly do so, slowly but surely. The railroad is not paying much more than expenses, if it does that, and he thinks that a through line will be a good plan to get their money back. Our prospects are doubtless good for a railroad in a few years.

EFFECT OF THE DECLINE IN THE VALUE OF SILVER.—Washington, Thursday, June 10, 1875.—The effect of the recent decline in the value of silver bullion appears not to be clearly understood, and the intimation on the part of the director of the mint that this decline would soon bring about the use of silver coin in the place of the fractional currency has led to many inquiries at the treasury department. To make this subject perfectly clear, a prominent officer has responded to the many questions bearing on this matter in the following manner:

The gold value of silver is now 121 cents per ounce, fine, which corresponds to 109 cents per ounce 900 fine, or United States standard. One dollar in fractional contains 385 8-10 grains, and since 480 grains (one ounce) are worth $1 09, 385 grains are worth 87 6-10 cents. This may be termed the intrinsic value of silver. With gold at $1 16, United States notes are worth 86 2-10 cents. From the foregoing data it will be seen that a dollar in fractional silver coins will purchase less than 1½ cents worth more of gold than United States notes, and this difference would at this time be scarcely sufficient to defray insurance and freight in exporting the coin. The supply of silver being so largely in excess of the demand, its decline in value until it reaches the gold value of the legal tender currency of countries like the United States, Russia and Austria appears to be quite certain. The causes producing an excessive supply of silver are well known to be the recent change from the silver to the gold standard by the German Empire, its limited use as a legal tender in France and her monetary allies, and the increasing production of that metal in the United States.

THE OLDEST VETERAN.

[From the New York Tribune of June 11th.]

John Shrady, an old resident of this city and one of the oldest veterans of the war of 1812, died on June 10th in his 93d year. He was born May 28, 1783, in the vicinity of Chatham and Pearl streets, in this city, during the first year of the Mayoralty of the Hon. James Duane, while the city still was held by British troops. His father, of the same name, also a native of the city, served throughout the Revolutionary war, having been at one time a prisoner of war in the Old Sugar House, from which he subsequently escaped disguised. John Shrady was a schoolmate of Washington Irving and Dr. John W. Francis. His early life was also identified with the memory of Thomas Jefferson, Aaron Burr, Brockholst Livingstone, Alexander Hamilton, DeWitt Clinton, and others, of whom he was wont to relate many characteristic anecdotes. Had he continued his relations with the Tammany Society he would have been the oldest member on the rolls. His reminiscences of New York covered many interesting periods of its history, including some of the epidemics of yellow fever and cholera. He succeeded his father in the shoe trade, from which, however, he retired some time about his 40th year. The funeral services will take place on Sunday, June 13th, from his late residence at No. 38 East Thirty-second street.

I KNOW NOT.

I know not if thy spirit weaveth ever
The golden fantasies of mine for thee;
I only know my love is a great river,
And thou the sea!

I know not if the time to thee is dreary
When ne'er to meet we pass the Wintry days;
I only know my music is never weary,
The theme thy praise.

I know not if thy poet heart's emotion
Responsive beats to mine through many a chord
I only feel in my untold devotion
A rich reward.

I know not if the grass were waving o'er me,
Would nature's voice for thee keep sadder tune;
I only know wert thou gone home before me,
I'd follow soon.

But while thou walk'st the earth with brave heart ever,
I'll singing go, though all unrecked by thee.
My great affection floweth like a river,
And thou the sea!

—Jane C. Simpson, in Good Words.

Many politicians of our time are in the habit of laying it down as a self-evident proposition, that no people ought to be free till they are fit to use their freedom. The maxim is worthy of the fool in the old story, who resolved not to go into the water till he had learnt to swim! If men are to wait for liberty till they become wise and good in slavery, they may indeed wait forever.—Macaulay.

MEDICAL.
TO THE UNFORTUNATE.
NEW REMEDIES! NEW REMEDIES!
Dr. Gibbon's Dispensary,
623 KEARNEY STREET, COR. COMMERCIAL, San Francisco. Established in 1854, for the treatment of Sexual and Seminal Diseases, such as Gonorrhoea, Gleet, Stricture, Syphilis in all its forms, Seminal Weakness, Impotency, etc. Skin Diseases (of years standing) and Ulcerated Legs successfully treated.
DR. GIBBON has the pleasure of announcing that he has returned from visiting the principal Hospitals of Europe, and has resumed practice at his Dispensary, 623 Kearney street, corner of Commercial, San Francisco, where his old patients and those requiring his services may find him.
The Doctor has spared neither time nor money in seeking out new remedies, and has returned with increased facilities for the alleviation of human suffering.
Horrible Diseases.
How many thousands of persons, both male and female, are there who are suffering out a miserable existence from the effects of secret indulgences, or from virus absorbed into the system! Look at their pallid, emaciated and disfigured faces, and their broken-down constitutions, disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life. In this horrid situation thousands suffer until death closes the scene. Let parents, guardians, friends, attend to those who are suffering with any of these terrible, life-destroying maladies—see that they are cared for and cured before it be too late. Send them immediately to DR. GIBBON, a physician who has made private diseases his especial study for years, and who is certain to cure the most inveterate case, without mercury or any injurious drugs. It is important to those who are afflicted, or to those who are interested in the welfare of their friends, to be careful of the many pretended doctors who infest our cities, publishing their skill in curing all diseases in a few days, imposing upon the public by using the names of eminent physicians from Europe and other places. Be therefore careful and make strict inquiry, or you may fall into the hands of those charlatans.
Seminal Weakness.
Seminal Emissions, the consequence of self-abuse, this solitary vice, or depraved sexual indulgence, is practiced by the youth of both sexes to an almost unlimited extent, producing with unerring certainty the following train of morbid symptoms, unless combatted by scientific medical measures, viz: Sallow countenance, dark spots under the eyes, pain in the head, ringing in the ears, noise like the rustling of leaves and rattling of chariots, uneasiness about the loins, weakness of the limbs, confused vision, blunted intellect, loss of confidence, diffidence in approaching strangers, a dislike to form new acquaintances, disposition to shun society, loss of memory, hectic flushes, pimples and various eruptions about the face, furred tongue, fetid breath, coughs, consumption, night sweats, monomania and frequent insanity. If relief be not obtained, should apply immediately, either in person or by letter, and procure a cure effected by his new and scientific mode of treating this disease, which never fails of effecting a quick and radical cure. Dr. G. will give One Hundred Dollars to any person who will prove satisfactorily to him that he was cured of this complaint by either of the San Francisco quacks.
Married Men,
those who contemplate marriage, who are suffering under any of these fearful maladies, should not forget the sacred responsibility resting upon them, but delay to obtain immediate relief.
DR. GIBBON is responsible, and will give to each patient a written instrument, binding himself to effect a radical and permanent cure, or make no charge.
Caution to the Unfortunate.
Beware of the San Francisco quacks and pretenders who, with bogus sworn-to certificates, deceive the unwary. Some of the self-styled doctors, whose names are to be found in the daily and weekly newspapers of San Francisco and other places, are tradesmen and became too lazy to work at their trades. Some are tinsmiths, shoemakers, newspaper carriers, intelligence office keepers, etc. The only way to avoid imposition is to make inquiry—it will cost you nothing, and may save you many regrets; for, as advertising physicians in eight cases out of ten are bogus, there is no safety in trusting any of them until you know who and what they are. Dr. Gibbon does not deceive people by exhibiting bogus letters, certificates, pretended patients' letters, etc. Dr. Gibbon will satisfy persons who may call at his office of his ability to treat diseases that he proposes to cure.
Cured at Home.
Persons at a distance may be CURED AT HOME by addressing a letter to Dr. Gibbon, stating case, symptoms, length of time the disease has continued, and have medicines promptly forwarded, free from damage and curiosity, to any part of the country, with full and plain directions. By inclosing Ten Dollars coin, in registered letter through the Postoffice or through Wells, Fargo & Co., a package of medicine will be forwarded to any part of the Union. All communications strictly confidential.
Address DR. J. F. GIBBON, 623 Kearney street, corner Commercial, San Francisco, Postoffice Box 1,957.
REMEMBER TO PUT BOX 1,957 ON THE LETTER. Consultations FREE.
Correspondents will please inform DR. GIBBON that they read his advertisement in the DAILY OREGONIAN. jy6d&p

The Daily Oregonian.

WEDNESDAY MORNING, JUNE 23, 1875.

THE NEW HAMPSHIRE GOVERNOR BEGINS A GOOD WORK.

The first official act of Governor Cheney, of New Hampshire, is the recommendation of measures to prevent abuses of the ballot. The scenes that have lately been enacted at Concord have surely been enough to open the eyes of the Governor to the necessity of some thorough work in the direction indicated. Abuses of the ballot have risen to the magnitude of the gravest question now pressing upon the attention of the country. There is no other problem that so urgently demands solution at the hands of the statesman of to-day, as that of the proper relation of the ballot to the welfare of the body politic, and the purity of the elections and honesty in declaring the results thereof. The best efforts to correct the abuses and prevent the frauds practiced in connection with the elections, have not been sufficient to keep even pace with the ingenuity of those who make a business of manipulating votes, and though the laws are made more and more stringent, and apparently made so as to reach every possible case of fraud, new modes of evading them, and new means of defying them, are constantly being invented.

The laws do not reach the case, and they never will until public sentiment on the subject is toned up to the point of recognizing all frauds of this character not merely as violations of the statutes, but as crimes of equal turpitude with larceny and forgery. Laws that go very far in advance of public sentiment are practically a nullity. Legislation is often, no doubt, a valuable means of educating the public mind, and may in that way hasten the time when wholesome laws can be enforced; but without the backing of a correct public conscience, the actual sanctions of the law in any given case amount to little or nothing.

THE WORLD PROGRESSES.

The world certainly does move. Progress is evident, on every hand. It has been commonly supposed that the Democracy was a thing—about the only thing—that never went forward or backward; but that is a mistake. Tammany Hall itself has been carried along with the current of civilization. This is seen at once on contrasting the former utterances of Tammany Society with its teachings of to-day. Here, for an example of the Tammany of former times, are some resolutions with which the society closed an address to their friends, on the 11th of October, 1819:

> Resolved, That as friends to our country we recommend to our brethren of the different Societies of Tammany, or Columbian order, the necessity, as well as moral duty, to our country, ourselves and to posterity, of refraining from every species of useless extravagance in our mode of living, especially in furniture, dress, the table, ostentatious equipage, and expensive amusements.
> Resolved, That we discountenance the importation and use in our families of every species of foreign manufacture or production which can or may be reasonably substituted by the fabrics or productions of the United States.
> Resolved, That as "economy is wealth," we seriously recommend to our brethren throughout the United States a strict and rigid observance of this great moral duty in their families and social intercourse.

That sounds as little like Tammany of to-day as one can well imagine—as little as the general extravagance and ostentation that pervade all branches of society and of the public service are like the true republicanism of the earlier day.

TWEED.

The troubles of Boss Tweed, the great Tammany thief, seem not likely to end till the end of his mortal life—if then. His release from prison, under the decision of the Court of Appeals, is merely a transfer from Blackwell's island penitentiary to the common jail. He passes from the custody of the officer whose duty is to keep convicted felons to the custody of the officer who is charged with the keeping of felons who have not yet been convicted.

Notwithstanding the truth cannot be forgotten that he is a common thief in character and a most uncommon one in the magnitude of his operations, still one cannot help a feeling of pity for the fallen man, as one sees him brought into court just out of the penitentiary and held to bail in $3,000,000 in civil suits, besides having to answer further indictments for his official corruptions. Justice cannot be outraged by any length of imprisonment the old rogue may suffer, for his life will be too short to answer for his crimes. But yet there is something peculiarly sad in the circumstances of his present situation. His case is truly an example of the hardness of the way of the transgressor.

THE MISSING LETTER TO BE SUPPLIED.

The "Reclamation" of Archbishop Blanchet, which we publish this morning, reached us Sunday and would have appeared in Monday's paper had it not been overlooked in the press of matter connected with the election. The objection made to the title of the pamphlet, that the French termination is not presented along with the English, it seems to us is a matter of little moment, as the controversy was upon another point. But the leaving out of the Archbishop's letter of November 21st is by no means a trifling omission. It is an important discussion, and contains some points not made anywhere else. Its omission, however, we are informed by the compiler, as well as by the publisher, was wholly accidental, and is as much regretted by them as it can be by the Archbishop. The publisher of the pamphlet, Mr. Geo. H. Himes, informs us that comparatively few copies have yet been sent out, and that before any more are allowed to go the missing letter of the Archbishop will be inserted.

THE RAIN STORM IN CALIFORNIA.

Concerning the heavy rains that occurred in the interior of California, last week, of which telegraphic dispatches were furnished to our readers, our correspondent at Jacinto, Colusa, county, writes that much damage has been done. A large proportion of the wheat had been cut and stacked in the fields, no care being taken to make the stacks water proof, as rain at this season of the year has been unknown in that region. But the rain that came drenched everything through and through, making the wheat stacks soaking wet to the depth of four feet from the surface. A great many farmers, he says, will be ruined; and many are feeling discouraged, and the general prospect is anything but flattering.

The New York Times remarks that Mr. Beach is certainly showing the counsel in the Beecher case how to make a speech. He talks like a man—not like a dreary essayist or like a machine. How does Tracy's hum-drum manuscript, or Mr. Porter's volley of street slang, compare with this plain and simple address? It almost seems sometimes as though the art of making a good speech were dead. Public speakers make such elaborate preparations for their work that they lose their heads altogether and forget that they are addressing sensible men and women of the nineteenth century. Mr. Beach's speech is that of a man who has not crammed himself with a pack of quotations until he cannot see out of his eyes, but who attends to the plain matter-of-fact business before him. Whoever may win the case, the plaintiff's counsel will, beyond doubt, carry off the forensic honors of this contest.

From a circular issued by Mr. P. Fleming, of Dundee, Scotland, Honorary Commissioner of Immigration for Oregon, we learn that a large party were to leave Glasgow for Oregon on the 11th of June, in the steamer State of Pennsylvania. They are accompanied by Capt. George Pope, late commander of the ship Dunsinane, who has lately returned from a voyage to Oregon, and who was so much pleased with the country that he has resolved to come out with his family and a number of friends to settle here.

The Pennsylvania elections will be held in November instead of October hereafter. This is effected by a change in the State constitution. The change will deprive Pennsylvania of the undue influence she has always exerted on the November elections of other States and for President, through her October election. The new constitution of Connecticut, which will probably be adopted, changes the election in that State to November.

OREGON IMMIGRATION AGENT WANTED AT OGDEN.

PORTLAND, June 22, 1875.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

Marshall J. Kinney, of Salem, writes me from Liverpool, England, offering $50, provided two or more gentlemen of Oregon contribute $100 more, to make in all a fund of $150, for the special purpose of paying three months' salary to a man at Ogden (the junction of the Union and Central Pacific Railroad), to there distribute on the railroad cars pamphlets to all emigrants going to San Francisco. Mr. Kinney names the man who will act as distributor for the months of August, September and October, and this immigration board will supply gratuitously many hundreds of copies of the necessary pamphlets and various other information on Oregon for the agent at Ogden; so that all that is necessary is for two or more citizens to donate the $100 required to carry into effect Mr. Kinney's well-timed proposition. How many, and which of our citizens will donate $15, $25 or $30 for the special object named? I shall be pleased to acknowledge through your paper any funds so received.

While conveying this proposition to the public let me ask the question: Why it is that so many of our citizens, whose businesses and pecuniary interests are all in Oregon, refuse to contribute anything towards our immigration interests? The benefits which have already accrued to the State must be apparent to all. The only true and legitimate road to the individual success of the merchants, and the trade of Portland generally, is by increasing considerably the population of this State. It is certain, that no other course will ever insure Portland's eventual success—hence there should be no hesitation in every citizen donating a few dollars to support the State's immigration interests, knowing that the sums so contributed will afterwards (like seed sown in the spring season) return to the people fourfold.

Personally, I am much disappointed at the apathy and want of assistance shown by the people, and unless the immigration interests of the State are to be pushed forward with greater vigor and funds supplied to make Oregon known, if possible in every portion of the United States, we cannot be expected to continue our labors successfully.

Yours, &c.,
WILLIAM REID,
A State Commissioner of Immigration.

RECLAMATION.

PORTLAND, June 19, 1875.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

Allow me to reclaim, in the columns of your Daily, against the pamphlet called "Wallamet," or "Willamette," whose publication I approved some months ago, in favor of the posterity, and which was to contain, among all the rest, my three letters on the name of our river. When the subscription list was presented to me, I objected to the heading: Wallamet or Willamette, as incomplete. I therefore earnestly recommended the addition of the old original name Wallamette, as having more right to the contest than the two other modern ones, and because mention is made of it on nearly every page. And what was my astonishment when, last Saturday, the 19th inst., I received the said pamphlet with the same partial heading, omitting the old original name, as if it never had existed, and thereby leading the people into error. My displeasure still increased much more, when, on perusing it, I found that my very important third letter, of Nov. 21st, published in the Sentinel Nov. 27, 1874, was wanting, though so decisive on the subject. I must also declare that the heading of my first, of Oct. 7th, is incorrect. It would be, as treated therein, Wallamette, Wallamet, Willamette. For these reasons, I reclaim and protest against said pamphlet as incomplete, and showing too much partiality. Thanking you for the space granted, I remain, yours truly,

F. N. BLANCHET,
Archbishop of Oregon.

The special term of the circuit court for Tillamook county, which was called for July, has been postponed. Judge Bonham informs the Statesman that there are but three cases on the docket, and those are civil cases that can, without detriment, be put off and the expense of holding court in that sparsely settled county is a heavy tax upon the property-holders there. The last legislature, in fixing the time for holding courts in various counties, left Tillamook out in the cold. All the terms held there are special, and Judge Bonham will give due notice when the next term will be held.

WEDNESDAY MORNING, JUNE 23, 1875.

CITY.

A DANGEROUS SLIDE.—On Friday last, a young lady who resides in the neighborhood of Eagle Cliff, undertook to visit a lady friend a few miles distant, and instead of taking a small boat, she started off on a trail leading into the woods and over the cliff. In a short time she lost her way and after wandering about for over an hour became disgusted and tired of the undertaking. Seeing an old flume work which proved to be a chute for sliding wood from the cliff to the dock below, she concluded to descend by it. This chute is 400 feet in length and proved to be in good condition to aid her in making a quick passage. The young lady got into the chute and descended with lightning rapidity. Her dress catching just as she reached the terminus prevented her being thrown over the rocks into the river, otherwise a sad accident might have been the result. She came out of her adventure with a few scratches and clothes "all tattered and torn."

PERILOUS VOYAGE.—The tug Teaser left The Dalles at 6 A. M. yesterday, with Mr. J. W. [illegible] at the wheel, and two men, Carroll and Stephenson, as fireman and engineer, for the purpose of coming through to Portland via the rapids of the Cascades. The little vessel reached the upper cascades about 10 o'clock, and was soon dashing through the breakers on her perilous voyage. In a trifle over ten minutes the tug had ran through the boiling waters, being tossed about in a most unceremonious manner. The reader can imagine with what speed she traveled when we say the distance was six miles. The train bound for the lower cascades was stopped at a point on the road where a good view could be obtained, and the passengers had an opportunity to witness a portion of the tug's passage. Shortly after 4 o'clock the Teaser arrived at the boneyard.

CONSIGNEES.—The manifest of the ship Champion, lost off the Farallone Islands on the 17th inst., as reported briefly by telegraph in Monday's OREGONIAN, gives the following list of consignees in this city: Corbett, Failing & Co., Goldsmith & Lowenberg, and Knapp, Burrell & Co. In addition to the above we find A. P. Hotaling & Co. and D. W. & E. Walter, San Francisco houses, which have branches here, the former represented by E. C. Lord, Esq., and the latter by Mr. Dav. Walter. The cargo is a total loss. The Champion was consigned from New York to Geo. Howes & Co., San Francisco.

MR. BENTLEY'S ADDRESS.—The Salem Statesman of yesterday says: The address last night at the University, before the literary societies of the University, by Rev. Robert Bentley, D. D., of Portland, was an able one, and was listened to by one of the largest audiences ever congregated in the chapel of that institution. After the address a reunion of the Hesperian and Athenian societies was held in their rooms, where a number of the friends of those institutions were sumptuously entertained on strawberries and cream.

ILL—CONVALESCING.—Mr. Samuel M. Smith is still confined to his residence on Third street. Eugene Protzman is able to be down town on pleasant days. Like Fred Cole, he managed to make a trip to the business center on Monday and take in the excitement of the city election. Mr. S. D. Smith, of the Occidental Hotel, was improving last evening. Wm. Williams, Esq., is about again after a brief spell indoors.

NEW STEAMER.—A little steamer called Clatsop Chief, built some weeks ago down the river, was brought up to the city yesterday morning for the purpose of having the boiler and hull inspected by James Lotan and Capt. Fowlers. The required inspection will be made to-day, and a license issued. The Clatsop Chief is a side-wheel steamer, and is intended to ply the waters of the lower Columbia.

P. D. & S. L. R. R.—Letters from the east received yesterday morning, indicate that Col. [illegible] Hudnutt, who, it will be remembered, in the interests of the Union Pacific railroad surveyed a line from Salt Lake to the Columbia river a number of years ago, is likely to be engaged to run a line for the Portland, Dalles and Salt Lake railroad. So says the evening contemporary.

WEATHER REPORT.—From the records of the U. S. Signal Station of Observation, Portland, Oregon, June 22, 1875:

ENTERPRISING.—Mr. Isaac Blum, with his usual enterprise, kept the public informed of the progress of the political fight on Monday by posting on his bulletin boards figures from the various polling places as they were brought in. Large crowds gathered to see the figures marked on the bulletins.

PIONEERS' REUNION.—Copies of the WEEKLY OREGONIAN of June 19th, containing full report of the Pioneers' Reunion at Salem, including the addresses of Hon. M. P. Deady and Col. J. W. Nesmith, can be obtained at this office upon application by mail or otherwise.

BALL AND BAT.

This evening, at 7:30 o'clock, a meeting of the Pioneer Base Ball Club will be held at the room of J. M. Gearin, Esq. Important business on hand, and a full attendance desired.

E. D. Crandall, secretary of the Aldine club of Salem, publishes the following card: "At the last meeting of the Aldines, held on Saturday evening, they determined to suspend operations until the second Monday in September. Thinking that, perhaps, base ballists and the people in general would construe this as an endeavor to hold the "champion bat" without playing for it, the club instructed the secretary to make a statement to the papers explaining the matter. The Aldine club is composed mostly of students of the University, several of whom will not be with us during the summer vacation. These, perhaps, are the most important men in the 'nine, and without them the Aldines would fare but poorly. We have met and defeated the only club in the county that aspired to the honor of holding the "champion bat," and considering our work for the present done, and our reputation fully established, we will rest on our laurels until school again begins. During vacation, little or no interest is taken in base ball in Salem, and the Aldines expect no challenge, nor will they receive any until school opens, at which time they intend to enter for the championship of the State. Clubs desiring to play for the bat will be accommodated any time after vacation, but at present the Aldines will play no games."

THE TURF.

From the Walla Walla Union we learn that the new track near that place was "warmed" on Saturday for the first time by a race between "Buckskin" and "Oregon Rube." The distance was six hundred yards, with catches. There was not much betting on the result. "Rube" drew the inside, which, for the distance, was not more than a foot or two shorter than the outside, but the ground was harder and in better condition. After a little trouble the horses got a good start, "Rube" leading for a few rods, when "Buckskin" shot past him and took the inside, maintaining his lead under the wire by twenty feet. There was a claim of foul riding against "Buckskin," but as the boys had not been instructed, it seemed that everything was deemed fair, and the race was given to him by twenty feet.

MILITARY NOTES.

Upon the recommendation of his company commander, on account of good conduct, and for reasons satisfactory to the department commander, the charges—"Violation of the 38th and 62d Articles of War"—now pending against Private Patrick Hayes, company M, 1st cavalry, are withdrawn, and he is restored to duty without trial.

In obedience to circular letter of instructions of the 21st ult., from the war department, 2d Lieutenant Frederick K. Ward, 1st cavalry, is relieved from duty under the assignment ordered in general orders No. 20, series of 1874, and will transfer all public property for which he is accountable as acting engineer officer and acting signal officer, to 1st Lieutenant Joseph A. Sladen, 14th infantry, aid-de-camp.

BRIEF NOTES.

Still descending—the rain.

Large Eastern mails last evening.

Steamer Ajax had not arrived up to a late hour last evening.

Yesterday the Columbia river at Wallula was at a standstill.

The steamer Ohio will leave for Eugene City next Tuesday morning.

The new freight steamer, being built above the upper sawmill by the W. R. T. Co., has been launched.

The ship City of Vienna, which is lying at anchor out in the stream, is rapidly receiving a cargo of flour.

An open air meeting was held yesterday morning at the corner of First and Stark streets, by Rev. Mr. Hammond.

Piles are now being driven along to the rear of McCraken's new brick building for a large wharf, which will be built the present season.

It is really a matter of surprise how much attention a balky horse will attract. That is what a certain driver thinks who attempted to cross the Stark-street ferry yesterday.

This morning in custody of Sheriff Jeffery, Joel Wilson, alias "Lager Beer Joe," will be taken to Salem, where he will serve out his term of confinement in making brick.

Workmen are busy putting a new wooden foundation under the building at corner of First and Washington streets. They are also putting a new sidewalk in front of the house.

Blocks, which will be used in laying the Nicolson pavement along Front street, are now being sawed at Smith Bros.' mill. It is expected to have the most of the blocks cut by the 8th of August.

ORDINATION OF A CHINESE MINISTER.

HIS EXPERIENCES AND PERSECUTIONS.

A council was convened yesterday afternoon at the First Baptist church for the purpose of ordaining Dong Gong, the Chinese missionary, as a minister of the Gospel. James T. Dunn, of Salem, was chosen moderator, and T. P. Hackleman, of Albany, secretary. The council was opened with prayer by Rev. J. C. Baker, the Sunday school missionary. Rev. D. J. Pierce stated the object of the calling of the council, and gave a brief history of the work of the Chinese mission in this city since its establishment, November 13, 1874.

Dong Gong was introduced to the council by Mr. Pierce and related his experience, which was listened to very attentively. He said when he was converted he resolved not to engage in the ministry, because he was so much carried away with mercantile matters. He related the death scene of a friend, who died so happy that he almost wished that he could go with him. Afterwards, becoming very much changed in mind and heart, he resolved to preach the Gospel. He returned to China, where he was greatly persecuted by his own people and relatives, who punished him often. Then he came back to San Francisco, where he had been converted, and thence he came to Portland.

At the conclusion of his relation of his experiences, he was examined by the council on those points of theology which are deemed essential in the Baptist communion. The examination having been satisfactorily passed, the council determined the ordination should proceed. The formal act of ordination will take place at the same place, this evening at half past seven o'clock.

The council consists of Bro. James T. Dunn, moderator, Salem; Bro. T. P. Hackleman, secretary, Albany; W. T. Brayton, Oregon City; J. T. Huff, Oregon City; George C. Watson, Oregon City.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

Mr. E. A. Saxe is here again with reapers, mowers and other farming implements below Granger's prices. Note the ad.

W. Jackson & Co. are offering oils of different kinds at lowest market rates in lots to suit buyers. The stock in store is very large.

Mrs. Cloutrie announces that she will continue to cater to the wants of those visiting Clatsop this summer, at the "Summer House." Mrs. C. is too well known to receive extended mention at our hands.

Capt. Fairfowl, in the course of his operations clearing up a lot at the back of the city, has used Giant Powder to great advantage in stump blasting. With this powerful explosive he has, on several occasions, shattered large stumps and blown them clean out of the ground. James Laidlaw & Co. are agents. See advertisement.

The rush to Fabre & Barnes' continues unabated. They know how to please.

The railroad war and other events that have occupied the attention of the public for day's past were nothing as compared with the excitement created by BECK & WALDMAN, the well-known Clothiers, who are selling their Summer Stock of Clothing, Men and Boys' wear, at fearfully low prices. Before making a purchase step into their place and see what they can do for you. The stock of furnishing goods at this house is complete.

Big Bonanza's are all very well in their way, but that popular dealer in Clothing, JOS. KOHN, opposite the National Bank, is content to serve his many patrons and the public in general with the very latest goods in his line, and to give the purchaser the benefit of low prices during the dull times. His stock of Clothing, Furnishing Goods, etc., was never more complete. You will never regret your purchases at Kohn's. Call to-day.

The celebrated Polar Soda Water can be found only at the "German Pharmacy" of Wm. Pfunder, lately removed to New Market Theater block. All the ladies of Portland take this refreshing drink at the above place since its opening. Syrups better than ever. Reputation of the "Polar" fully sustained.

RAFFLE!

Mrs. Fitzpatrick's Singer Sewing Machine will be raffled at the Catholic Library Rooms on Saturday, June 26th, at 8 P. M.

COLD LUNCHES.—The oyster season having closed, WALLER & SON, Oak street, between First and Second, will serve Rare Lunches to their patrons at all hours. The OXFORD SALAD DRESSING, their own preparation, is meeting with great favor. Try it.

At The GREAT EASTERN CLOTHING STORE they are offering the finest Clothing to be found in the city, at prices that defy competition. There you can select from the latest styles which are laid in upon the arrival of every steamer from San Francisco. A full line of Furnishing Goods, Youths' Suits, Valises and Trunks constantly on hand. Observe the sign, "Great Eastern Clothing Store." W. HARRIS, Proprietor, 125 First street.

REV. E. P. HAMMOND IN PORTLAND.

The reveille of the Christian host was sounded this morning at 8.30, and promptly responded to by the Christians of the city, who, gathering at the sound of the bell, filled the audience room of the Presbyterian church to overflowing. Prayer was offered by the Rev. T. L. Sails, when Mr. Hammond opened at the 45th chapter of Isaiah, saying: "I think it is well enough and important to get the word of God before the people as early in the meeting as possible, for without faith and understanding ye are dead. Now I can go down to the telegraph office and talk with my friends in New York; but if the wire is broken, all communication ceases. It is just so with the Christian. He is a wire between earth and heaven, and if they become dull, cold and indifferent, communication between you and your Saviour ceases. I judge from appearances that the river broke up on Sunday night, but the ice is only just commencing to move. Christians are now getting on to their feet and nearer the Lord. He is on our side and with Him we must prevail." The interest was intenso yesterday morning, and that some unseen power was at work was visible in the earnestness, quickness and alacrity with which Christians sprang into the breach and helped to lift up the banner of the cross. The church was warmed and well ventilated, the large organ was brought into use and as its strong and heavy notes went swelling through the audience, the people seemed to be caught with the tide and borne up into nearer and closer communion with their Saviour. There was hardly time for all to speak who wished. Four and five would be on their feet at a time! Many strangers were present. Dr. Lindsley, Rev. T. J. Huff, Dr. Dickson and many others of the brothers and sisters bore witness to the extent of the feeling that pervades this community and of the numbers who are inquiring the way of salvation. One little girl thanked God that he had given her a good Christian mother, who had taught her how Jesus loves her. One gentleman said that he thanked God that Christians were finding out that these were not Mr. Hammond's meetings, but were beginning to realize that God himself had a hand in them. Forty-six different requests for prayer were handed in by parents for their children, brothers for their sisters, children for their parents, for friends, neighbors, distant communities, husbands for their wives and wives for their husbands: Immediately after the close of the morning service an open-air meeting was organized, at the corner of Stark and First streets, where short and stirring appeals were made to the unconverted by Revs. T. L. Sails, Hammond and Chatlin, to flee from the wrath to come and take refuge on the good old ship Zion. At an early hour last evening the Rink commenced to fill, and by fifteen minutes past eight o'clock the large room was well filled. Twenty-five or thirty minutes was spent in singing the grand old rallying songs of salvation. The singing is a very marked feature of these meetings. One piano, three organs, a cornet, accompanied by two hundred voices, and at times a chorus of at least one thousand, produce a grand volume of sound, which rises in swelling cadences that may be heard for blocks away. The Rev. Mr. Bagley, of Seattle, gave the opening prayer, when Mr. Hammond read from the 6th chapter of Ezekiel, interspersed all the way through with remarks. He said, I believe that the Devil was never more busy in Portland than right now. I recollect of hearing of two men walking through the streets of Rome; one of them remarked, how busy the evil spirits are here. No, said the other; they have no occasion to be busy; they have everything their own way. How are they off in England, Scotland and America, where the revival spirit is at work? He spoke of an old religious woman who was strong in prayer, and said that it took legions of devils to counteract the influences for good that she set afloat, while right over in town some of the churches were so low in religious spirit that one little sleepy Devil could take care of them and then not have his hands full. I believe that one reason why St. Paul was so blest was because he was always asking Christians to pray for him. After prayer and singing he proceeded to speak at length from the passage, "Saul, Saul, why persecutest thou me," dividing it into four divisions. First, slaughtering Saul; second, stricken Saul; third, submissive Saul; fourth, saved Saul! Mr. Hammond spoke at least one hour and a half, making earnest and direct appeals alike to the Christian and sinner. The attention of the audience was very marked and fixed all the time. At at the inquiry meeting a large proportion of the audience stayed and the members of the different churches went to work with a spirit and will. The covenant book was opened and a large number of covenant cards were there for signatures.

Morning Bible meeting as usual at the Presbyterian church at 8:30. Children are invited to the rink at a quarter to 7 o'clock. Meeting for adults at 7:30. There will be an open air meeting at the corner of Stark and First at 11 o'clock.

A large number of ministers from the country were present and seemed to enter into the work with enthusiasm.

AMUSEMENTS.

Last evening a large and cultivated audience greeted the second rendition of the fascinating play of "La Tentation," at New Market Theater. The support was, with but few exceptions, quite passable, and gave satisfaction. Lingard's "Achille" was natural and easy. Barrows' "De Vardes" was quite free from conspicuous faults, and effective. Miss Dickie, as "Helene," was as charming and bewitching as could have possibly been desired. The remainder of the cast was prompt and efficient. This evening, "Alphonse," a fine three-act play, will be produced with a strong cast, followed by Lingard in his inimitable sketches.

The Commissariat of the Body.

The stomach is the commissariat of the physical system. It furnishes the natural sustenance of every organ. If disordered, the whole body languishes; but, however affected, its tone and vigor may always be restored by a course of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. The regularity in its operations which this grand tonic alterative establishes is the most direct means of obviating physical debility. Impurities of the blood and affections of the discharging organs. We know that if digestion or the habit of the body is obstructed, the entire physique is weakened in consequence of insufficient conversion of the food into blood and it is equally certain that the refuse of the system not being wholly thrown off, is sure to contaminate the vital fluid and surcharge the bowels and kidneys with vitiated matter which weakens and inflames them. The Bitters, by strengthening the organs of discharge, enables them to act vigorously, and thus liberates the pent-up waste which would otherwise work incalculable injury.

Harmony Encampment No. 4, C. of R. C.—Meets Tuesday Evenings at Good Templars' Hall, corner Third and Alder streets, at 7½ o'clock.

REV. E. P. HAMMOND AND THE PEOPLE OF PORTLAND.

When two strangers meet, it takes a little time for them to learn each other's ways. It takes every one of us a little time to know Mr. Hammond and also for him to know us. One man said to me, "He is a good general, for he sets you all at work;" another said, "He is a good actor, and that pleases." One said to-day, "He tells a story well;" another remarked, "His story sticks in the mind;" another said, "He is in earnest, and that will always win." Every one tries to find how he draws people of all classes to meeting and wins the confidence of so many. He says it is not his preaching, but it is the presence of the promised Holy Spirit in the word of God which he only reads and explains.

It is the same word, which every man can study, and must study to know the truth of God in Christ. Mr. Hammond believes that Jesus speaks the truth. It was this belief that made him so earnestly set forth the text, John iii., 3, "Jesus answered and said unto him, verily, VERILY, I say unto thee, except a man be born again he cannot see the kingdom of God."

"Ye must be born again." His story of the lawyer in Albany, New York, who was persuaded to go and hear the eloquent Mr. Nettleton, and went home scolding, that Mr. N. said nothing but "Ye must be born again," and who found no rest of soul till he looked to Jesus, shows that Mr. Hammond tries to turn every eye to the Saviour. The lesson this morning, that God answers our prayers, when we do what we can, is the old truth of Christian experience. This called up other witnesses. All were full of cheer to hear one and another say, "I know God heard my mother's prayers for me. I know He hears prayer now."

These words are strange to those who do not pray, or who only say the words of prayer and get no light or comfort. They are like men who carry around notes of various sums on a broken bank. The notes look well, but the promise is good for nothing. The promisor will not or cannot pay. But notes on a good bank make a man rich and make him feel rich. A man who is true, and who tells you the truth, makes you strong and gives you rest, and a sense of security in business life, in social life and in civil life. A man who is not true, and who does not speak the truth, makes you feel weak and restless, and unhappy in all your relations with him.

Mr. Hammond believes that Jesus of Nazareth was an honest man; that he told the truth; that all the promises of God in him are yea, and in him Amen. He believes they are as true to-day as when He was on earth, and that we may take the words of Jesus as we take bank notes; not as worthless paper, but as solid securities. He reads some of these notes; tells what he finds on their faces, and what rest and peace of mind they give him. Others do the same, and so the meetings become a kind of religious exchange where every one may take stock in the treasures of Heaven.

BAPTIST SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION.

The Baptist Sunday School Convention met at the Baptist church, in Portland, at 6:30 o'clock P. M. Elder A. J. Hunsaker elected chairman, and Bro. T. P. Hackleman, of Albany, secretary.

Elder A. C. Baker, agent of the American Baptist Publishing Society and Sunday School Missionary, for this coast, was invited to read from Isaiah, 55th chapter.

A committee of three was appointed on credentials, consisting of: Elder R. C. Hill, Elder D. J. Pierce and W. J. Laughery.

During the absence of the committee on credentials the congregation joined in singing "All Hail the Power of Jesus Name," which was followed with prayer and singing.

The committee on credentials reported progress and asked further time.

Bro. S. J. Barber, formerly superintendent of University Place Sunday school, Chicago, read an essay, subject: "Methods of Work," in which he advocated making the Sunday school a part of the church, as a training school, putting it in place of the second service, and the sending out of committees to canvass the town for scholars, being cautious not to trespass on other schools or offend by undue zeal.

On motion, 15 minutes was occupied in discussing the above subject, in speeches of three minutes each.

Elder J. C. Baker, Sunday school missionary, advocated the second service principle.

Elder Pierce held to the idea that the Sunday school was a part of the church, and that he was pastor of the Sunday school, and Bro. Dolph was assistant pastor.

Elder Bond considered that the Sunday school work was a church work.

Dr. R. C. Hill said that this work was considered church work, so much that the church of which he was pastor held itself responsible for the doctrines taught in the Sunday school.

Elder J. C. Baker was granted another three minutes, in which he gave a method of Sunday school work.

Adjourned to meet at a quarter past ten tomorrow morning.

Forty-five delegates were present from all parts of Oregon and Washington Territory.

T. P. HACKLEMAN, secretary.

SOMETIME

Sometime when all life's lessons have been learned
And sun and stars for evermore have set
The things which our weak judgments here have spurned
The things o'er which we grieved with lashes wet
Will flash before us out of life's dark night
As stars shine most in deeper tints of blue
And we shall see how all God's plans were right
And how what seemed reproof was love most true

And we shall see how while we frown and sigh
God's plans go on as best for you and me
How when we called He heeded not our cry
Because His wisdom to the end could see.
And e'en as prudent parents disallow
Too much of sweet to craving babyhood
So God perhaps is keeping from us now
Life's sweetest things because it seemeth good.

And if sometimes commingled with life's wine
We find the wormwood and rebel and shrink
Be sure a wiser hand than yours or mine
Pours out this portion for our lips to drink
And if some friend we love is lying low,
Where human kisses cannot reach his face
Oh do not blame the loving Father so
But wear your sorrow with obedient grace

And you shall shortly know that lengthened breath
Is not the sweetest gift God sends his friend,
And that, sometimes the sable pall of death
Conceals the fairest boon His love can send
If we could push ajar the gates of life
And stand within and all God's workings see
We could interpret all this doubt and strife,
And for each mystery could find a key

But not to day. Then be content poor heart
God's plans like lilies pure and white unfold
We must not tear the close shut leaves apart,
Time will reveal the calyxes of gold.
And if through patient toil we reach the land
Where tired feet, with sandals loose may rest,
When we shall clearly know and understand
I think that we will say God knew the best!
—Mrs May Riley Smith

HUMOROUS

A man who was sentenced to be hung was visited by his wife, who said, "My dear, would you like the children to see you executed?" "No," replied he, "That's just like you," said she, "you never wanted the children to have any enjoyment"

The Danburian is responsible for the following "The boatswain's pipe will not be loaned to you to smoke It's a mistake to inquire the time of day by the larboard watch. Don't think you can steer a boat because you have been a tiller of the soil

The culled folks of Cincinnati have had a spelling match, in which among others a good old aunty of eighty participated The climax was reached when the Rev James Johnson, being invited to spell "nose gay," started off, with a "N-o-u-s," then, seeing the fog-horn uplifted to blow him down, suddenly corrected himself to "N-o-u-g-h-s-g-a-y," and stepped down and out amid tremendous rounds of "Hi, dar" and applause

How pure and sweet and innocent is the character of country folks when compared with that of people condemned to the sordid, selfish, disingenuous life of the city. There's a flavor of that simplicity which goes with flowers and fields and "lowing kine" in this from "Cousin Sallie" "Dear John—The old hen's got chickens and I've lost two back teeth, but keep on sending me the papers so long as the trial lasts."—Brooklyn Argus

There was a great stir, says Punch, in our garden the other day. The potatoes were ready to jump out of their skins The beets turned red to their very roots The celery lost their heads, and the cabbages their hearts The peas split their pods with excitement. The asparagus could with difficulty be kept in its bed The parsley curled itself up in a corner The cucumber alone maintained its habitual coolness The cause of all this commotion was the presence of a noted vegetarian The potatoes never took their eyes off him

A man in Baltimore called on a grave digger one day, to have his wife's grave sodded He was an extremely penurious man, and higgled a long time over the price of the sodding Suddenly he became mute, while his eyes were fixed upon a neighboring tombstone. His daughter and the grave digger stood back in respect for the feelings of the old gentleman, in whose mind they supposed the sight of that tablet had called up the memory of a dear departed friend, for grief was depicted in his countenance and he was visibly agitated. At length the deep emotion which swelled his bosom found vent in this pathetic outburst, "My God! when did that man die? He owes me $200, and I'll never see a cent of it!"

BACCHUS

There is a suggestive moral in the following Grecian legend.

When Bacchus was a boy he journeyed through Hellas to go to Naxia, and as the way was very long he grew very tired, and sat down upon a stone to rest. As he sat there, with his eyes upon the ground he saw a little plant spring up between his feet, and was so much pleased with it that he determined to take it with him and plant it in Naxia He took it up and carried it away with him, but, as the sun was very hot, he feared it might wither before he reached his destination. He found a bird's skeleton, into which he thrust it, and went on. But in his hand the plant sprouted so fast that it started out of the bones above and below. This gave him fresh fear of its withering and he cast about for a remedy He found a lion's bone, which was thicker than a bird's skeleton, and he stuck the skeleton with the plant in it into the bone of the lion Ere long, however, the plant grew out of the lion's bone likewise Then he found the bone of an ass, larger still than that of the lion, so he put it into the ass's bone and thus he made his way to Naxia When about to set the plant, he found that the roots had entwined themselves around the bird's skeleton and the lion's bone and the ass's bone; and as he could not take it out without damaging the roots he planted it as it was and it came up speedily, and bore, to his great joy, the most delicious grapes, from which he made the first wine, and gave it to men to drink But behold a miracle! When men first drank of it they sang like birds, next, after drinking a little more, they became vigorous and gallant like lions but when they drank more still they began to behave like asses

ONE OF BUTLER'S HITS.—One of the last as well as one of the neatest hits made by General Butler, just before the close of the last session in Congress, occurred during the famous "dead lock" fight on the Civil Rights Bill. The question of adjournment was under consideration, and General Butler had stepped over to Mr Randall's desk for a private consultation Butler favored a Sunday session, Randall opposed

"Bad as I am, I have some respect for God's day," said the Democrat, "and I don't think it proper to hold a session of Congress on that day"

"Oh, pshaw!" responded Butler "don't the Bible say that it is lawful to pull your ox or ass out of a pit on the Sabbath day? You have seventy three asses on your side of this House that I want to get out of this ditch to-morrow and I think I am engaged in a holy work"

"Don't do it, Butler, pleaded Sam "I have some respect for you that I don't want to lose I expect some day to meet you in a better world"

"You'll be there as you are here," retorted Butler, quick as thought—"a member of the Lower House"—Editor's Drawer, in Harper's Magazine for May

We mentioned the fact a few days ago that Germany had discarded the double standard and selected gold as the only metal from which their currency can be coined Belgium and Holland have done the same thing and it is expected that the effect of this step will be felt in financial circles the world over The Banker's Deposit for say

In less than three years Germany has consumed 1,10,000,000 marks in gold for her new coinage, Belgium is turning, but her new gold mintage at the rate of $10,000,000 per year and Holland which is following suit will probably need $150,000,000 in gold In the meantime the Bank of France has been germandizing gold at a surprising rate The imports of that metal during the past year amounted to $10,400,000 of which $86,000,000 were retained in the country

The continuance of the high premium on gold in the United States is undoubtedly in a great measure attributable to this combined demand of European governments and their laws excluding silver from being recognized as money The parties who compose the New York gold clique and their coadjutors in Europe are well aware of all the facts and naturally avail themselves of the opportunity and by harmonious organization and unity of action manage to carry their ends Another very prominent reason for the decline in silver is to be found in the changed business condition of Asiatic countries Almost from time immemorial they have preferred silver to gold and Asia was the place to which immense amounts of silver found their way and never returned but now Asiatic nations readily accept both gold coin and bullion and are dealing largely in bills of exchange Their formerly insatiated appetite for silver seems to have been appeased and the greatly lessened demand from them has left an abundance for other peoples During the past ten or fifteen years on this coast especially the production of silver has been steadily increased while the gold production has grown, but little Should a material reduction in the value of silver occur as it seems it must it will only be because of the gradual steps by which it takes place that it will not seriously affect financial matters here

An inquiry concerning the condition of our local monetary market to day elicits the reply that it is very quiet and such has been the condition for some weeks We hear of no unusual complaint of dull times and money for trade purposes is in fair supply while demands for loans are seldom made in great volume Rates remain unchanged at our city banks while outside parties are disposed to accede to the demand of borrowers for slightly modified terms

Domestic Produce.

At no time during several weeks past has there been less activity in the produce market than at present. Receipts of nearly all kinds are light and if we except wool which is reaching the market in slightly increased quantities there is hardly enough trade to establish quotations Grain is offering occasionally and we have heard of one large lot of good wheat on the market for a day or two past but the holder wants a considerable advance on buyers figures and a sale had not been effected at a late hour this afternoon We think millers might pay $1 55 or even $1 60 per cental for choice lots to supply present wants but shippers would hardly be willing to pay over $1 50@1 55 Oats are scarce and barley ditto Mill feed is in a little better supply proportionately to the demand which is lessening Bacon is dull and dairy products in fair demand at good figures for the season

Wool is in full receipt from Walla Walla and Eastern Oregon and in considerable quantities from up this valley That from east of the mountains especially Walla Walla wool, on an average is not quotable at more than 20 cents ℔ and some of it sells for less Wallamet valley wools are generally accounted of better quality and may be quoted at 22@24 cents with chances of an advance of 4a6 cents on very choice lots of extra fineness suitable for special fabrics Notwithstanding the frequent cautions of buyers and the press it seems from some lots of wool coming to the market that growers in some instances still have the idea that it makes no difference in what condition or shape the article is offered but they find out their mistake when the buyers examine Sheep raisers should by all means put their wool on the market in assorted fleeces neatly packed and clean and they will make money by the operation if prices are low
